Objective

Capture cards by matching them by month (suit) to form scoring combinations called “yaku”. When you form yaku, you must decide: end the round to claim your points (Agari), or call “Koi-Koi” to continue and try to form more yaku for a higher score. The player who calls “Agari” first, wins that round. A game has multiple rounds (e.g. 6 or 12); the player who wins more points wins the game.

Game setup

- The game uses a 48-card Hanafuda deck, organized into 12 suits (months of the year).
- Each player receives 8 cards face-down as their hand.
- 8 cards are placed face-up in the center (the “field”).
- The remaining 24 cards form the draw deck.
- The starting player is determined by the previous round’s winner (or randomly in the first round).

Initial setup: opponent’s hand face-down (top), 8 cards in the field (center), your hand face-up (bottom), 24-card draw deck on the left.

Special dealing rules (Teyaku)

- Teshi (Hand of Four): If a player is dealt 4 cards of the same month in their starting hand, they win the round automatically (+6 points). The round ends immediately and a new round begins.

- Kuttsuki (Sticky Hand): If a player is dealt 4 pairs (e.g. two January, two February, two March, two April cards) in their starting hand, they win the round automatically (+6 points).
- Field void (Four-of-a-month on field): If 4 cards of the same month appear face-up on the field at the start of a round, the deal is void — all cards are reshuffled and redealt.

These dealing rules (collectively called Teyaku) may vary by household. Hanafuda Legends applies all three by default.

Turn flow

1. Play a card: Choose one card from your hand. If it matches a card on the field (same month/suit), capture both cards. If there is no match, place your card on the field.
2. Quad capture (special): If 3 cards of the same month are already on the field and you play or draw the 4th card of that month, you capture all 4 at once.
3. Draw and resolve: Draw the top card from the deck. If it matches a field card, capture both. Otherwise place the drawn card on the field. If this creates a quad capture, capture all 4.
4. Check for yaku: After capturing, the game checks if your captured cards form any yaku. If you have yaku, you must choose: Agari (end round and score) or Koi-Koi (continue playing).

Scoring

Yaku are scoring combinations; each has a point value. Multiple yaku can be formed at once; points add. Some yaku give extra points for additional cards (e.g. 5+ Animals, 5+ Ribbons, 10+ Chaffs). If you have no yaku, your score is 0 and you cannot end the round or call Koi-Koi.

Multipliers

- High score: Total yaku score ≥ 7 → final score doubled.
- Koi-Koi bonus: If the opponent called Koi-Koi and you then form yaku before they form new yaku, your score is doubled. Multipliers stack (e.g. $2 \times 2 = 4 \times$).

Koi-Koi decision

When you form a yaku you must choose:

- Agari (stop): End the round and score your current points (with multipliers).
- Koi-Koi (continue): Keep playing to try to form more yaku. Risk: if your opponent forms yaku before you form new yaku, they win the round and their score is doubled; you score 0.

You can call Koi-Koi multiple times per round. Each time you form new yaku, you choose again: Agari to stop and score, or Koi-Koi to keep going. The round ends when a player calls Agari, when the opponent forms yaku (they score doubled), or when the deck is empty (draw, both 0).

Round and game end

A round ends when: (a) a player calls Agari, (b) a player forms new yaku after having called Koi-Koi, or (c) both players run out of cards. The player with the higher score wins the round; ties are a draw. The winner of the previous round starts the next. The game winner is the player who wins the most rounds (or the higher total score if round wins are equal).
